Why is the Portal needed?

The CABI BioProtection Portal plays a vital role in raising awareness and advocating for bioprotection. By providing valuable information and resources to growers and agricultural service providers, it fosters the understanding and adoption of sustainable alternatives to chemical pesticides. This proactive approach safeguards farm workers' and consumers' health. It also enhances plant health and preserves biodiversity, for a healthier environment.

Who is CABI?

CABI is an international, inter-governmental, not-for-profit organization tackling global issues such as food security and food safety. We support growers and agricultural service providers to lose less and grow more through research, international development, and publishing of agricultural information.
